I would like to welcome John Caulfield and his Galway United team, club officials and supporters to the Carlisle Grounds for this evening's encounter.

The return of fans to the football grounds in the last few weeks has certainly increased the atmosphere on match day. Tonight, we are allowed to have 200 spectators in attendance at the Carlisle Grounds and the home fans certainly made a difference in our last two home games with the team recording victories over UCD (4-0) and Cobh Ramblers (2-1).

Congratulations to Academy under 17 goalkeeper Jack Ross on his call up to an Ireland under 18 home based players training session this week. Jack has featured on the substitutes bench for the Bray Wanderers senior team on several occasions this season.

Aine O'Gorman will join Vincent Kirwan as co-commentor on the live stream of tonight's game on LOI.TV. Aine, from Ennislerry, has been capped 107 times for the Republic of Ireland ladies' team.

The FAI cup draw has not been kind to Bray Wanderers during the week when we were drawn away to St. Patricks Athletic in Richmond Park. The tie will take place next weekend.

Enjoy the game.

MATCH PREVIEW – Michael Duffy

Galway United come into tonight's game sitting in second place in the First division. They are currently nine points behind leaders Shelbourne. Galway have won their last five league games and kept four clean sheets in a row.

Bray Wanderers are sitting in fifth place in the table, six points behind the Tribesmen and occupying the final play-off position. Wanderers are unbeaten in their last four games.

Galway had a slow start to the season drawing three and losing one of their four opening games played on the pitch. They were eventually awarded a 3-0 walk over win over Cabinteely for the late postponement of their game scheduled for Stradbrook in early April.

Gary Shaw scored the winner for Wanderers in injury time in the earlier meeting of the sides at Eamon Deacy Park in May. Joe Doyle had given Bray an early lead before Ruairi Keating equalised for the home side on 34 minutes. This game was John Caulfield's first game in charge of Galway United.

Galway have added to their squad in recent weeks. Goalkeeper Luke Dennison joined from Longford Town. Thomas Oluwa joined from Bohemians having played for Shamrock Rovers B team last season. Much travelled Joe Gorman has also signed from Longford Town. Joe had a spell with Bray Wanderers in 2014 when he made nine league appearances Stephen Christopher and goalkeeper Michael Garrihy departed the club last week.

Ruairi Keating is in third place in the goalscoring charts in the First division this season having netted 8 league goals to date. Bray's Joe Doyle is joint fourth highest with six league goals to date. Joe has scored four times in Wanderers last two home games.

Bray Wanderers have won three, drawn two and lost two of their seven home league games this season.

Galway United's away record this season is won four, drawn one and lost two of their seven away games to date.

Ryan Graydon once again misses out for Wanderers as he has received an additional three match ban for his recent sending off against Athlone Town.

Bray Wanderers scored twice in the closing two minutes of normal time and added time to earn the three points in this First division encounter.

Referee: Hugo Whoriskey

Wanderers went into this game sitting in fourth position in the First division table and a place inside the play off spots. Galway were in sixth place but eight points adrift of a play-off spot.

The visitors opened the brighter, but the home side responded well and their best first half chances fell to John Flood, but he was denied on both occasions by Galway keeper Robert Forde. Galway missed two good opportunities when Moran shot wide as O'Connor advanced to narrow the angle and then Lawless took advantage of a slip but pulled his shot across goal.

Chris O'Connor had to be at his best to save a long range shot from Kevin Walsh in the second half. The game changed with the introduction of Kieran "Tarzan" O'Brien on 72 minutes. O'Brien announced his arrival with a brave header just over, but when Forde could only parry Zayed's low cross O'Brien was quickest to react and fired to the net. With two minutes remaining on the clock. Zayed added a second two minutes into added time to clinch the victory.

QUIGLEY'S WORLD OF FOOTBALL

" Dream Weaver" By Brian Quigley

Harrogate Town could just be the happiest club in the English Football League [EFL]. The North Yorkshire town was voted the happiest place to live in Britain for three years running between 2013 and 2015; to give the residents even more to smile about, the town's soccer club – managed by Simon Weaver – have been winning promotion and after promotion in recent years.

Weaver is currently the longest-serving manager in the EFL, having been in charge of 'The Sulphurites' since 2009, initially as player-manager. When he first took charge the club were in the Conference North [now National League North], a division they were founder-members of in 2004. Weaver made the club's players professional in 2017 and was immediately rewarded with a promotion to the Conference / National League Premier. Two seasons later, in 2020, ascension to the Holy Grail of the EFL was achieved after a play-off win over Notts County.

Weaver's playing career lasted from 1996 to 2012, and took in spells at Sheffield Wednesday, Doncaster Rovers, Ilkeston Town, Nuneaton Borough, Lincoln City, Macclesfield Town, Kidderminster Harriers, Scarborough, York City, Tamworth, Boston United, Kings Lynn and Redditch United before he came to Harrogate in 2009; nearly 600 games as manager later [as of May 2021] he is still there.

The club was always a progressive one, going right back through its history, always on an upward curve. When they were founder-members of the North East Counties League in 1982 they had the foresight to install floodlights at their Wetherby Road stadium, to allow for further progression up the pyramid. A game against Leeds United celebrated the installation, with Leeds legend Eddie Gray switching on the lights for the first time. Further innovations included becoming a limited company in 1990 to fund construction of the new main stand, and of course the move to professionalism for the playing staff in 2017.

Harrogate itself a town of 75,000 inhabitants, a population certainly large enough to sustain an EFL side. Its claim-to-fame historically is its status as a spa town, with the iron, sulphur and salt of its waters proving particularly restorative to visitors [the sulphur inspired the club's nickname]. Another thing the town is remembered for is hosting the 1982 Eurovision Song Contest at the Harrogate International Centre [Bardo sang for the UK, The Duskeys for Ireland and Nicole won it for Germany].

Here's one that might come in handy at a pub quiz some time. The FA Trophy is the secondary national knock-out competition to the FA Cup, contested by teams at the upper-end of non-league. EFL teams cannot enter. Only one EFL team has won the FA Trophy while being an EFL side, and that's Harrogate Town. How did this come about? Well, Town qualified for the 2019-20 FA Trophy final against Concord Rangers during their final season as a non-league team. The final wasn't played until May 2021 though, due to the coronavirus pandemic, by which time Town were in League Two!

The Women's Game – Part 2

Mícheál Ó hUanacháin

After the FA's peremptory message to clubs in December 1921, requesting them not to facilitate women's games, things went downhill for the numerous girls' clubs then in existence, rapidly in England, and also, but somewhat slower, abroad.

In France, where there had been a women's League structure as early as 1918, the game was banned in 1932. Spanish women were not permitted to play from the late 1930s - presumably after the Civil War – until 1975. It was against the law for women to play football in Brazil from 1941 to 1979.

In Germany, the gymnastics clubs which were the backbone of the game did not admit women, so the women's game depended on a small number of single-sex clubs. In 1955, the DFB (which had been dissolved by Hitler in 1940 despite going along with the Nazis' policies until then) issued instructions to clubs not to form women's sections.

Russia came late to the ban, the Communist Party banning women's football in the Soviet Union from 1972, because it believed it was a men's sport.

It is somewhat surprising to find that neither the fledgling FAI nor even the deeply conservative IFA followed London's lead in this. In both jurisdictions we can find women's matches played on high-profile clubs' grounds throughout the period of the 'ban'. But that apart, the women's game got no support from the authorities. It didn't stop them playing, largely among themselves, though visitors are recorded too.

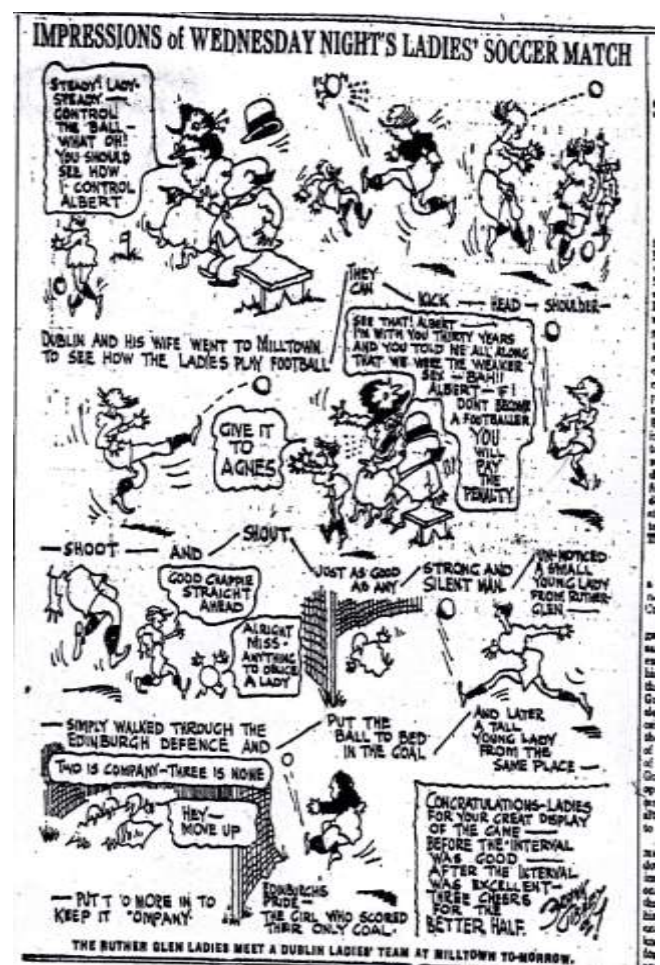

Even in England the ladies kept up their play. It took them only five days after the FA's ukase in December 1921 to organise a meeting of representatives of more than 30 teams in Liverpool, and from that came the English Ladies Football Association, which soon had a league of 57 teams of amateur players. It didn't last long, but it was a straw in the wind: football's women were not going away.

In 1925, Dick, Kerr's Ladies visited Belfast again to take on the Fémina Sport Club of Paris, at Windsor Park. In 1927, Rutherglen Ladies from Edinburgh played teams in Belfast and Dublin.

Rutherglen Ladies, from Edinburgh, visited both cities in 1927 and played local selections, the Dublin match at Milltown, where Shamrock Rovers had hosted Belfast Celtic for their official opening less than a year previously.

The attitude of the press had, if anything, hardened against the ladies. Dismissive at best, and usually mocking, they indicated a mindset not far from that of the FA, that the game was not only unsuitable for women (and they for it), but potentially harmful to them.

The Sports Mail's panel cartoon for the Rutherglen tour was much more friendly, and no more mocking than similar panels published routinely at that time about men's games.

Meanwhile, the Camogie Association, founded in 1904, largely due to the encouragement of Conradh na Gaeilge, was about to run its first All-Ireland Senior Camogie Championship in 1932, the fifth time they had set about it. With ten counties participating, this one would succeed – though for various reasons it wasn't concluded until July 1933, when Dublin beat Galway in the Final. Three of the Dublin team were players with Bray United at the time. Their All-Ireland has been run annually ever since, but like the association for ladies Gaelic football the Camogie body remains technically outside the GAA fold.

The nearest thing to a full women's soccer international played in this period was between an Irish selection including the redoubtable Mary Anne "Big Molly" Seaton, possibly the best player of her generation, and a fairly representative French side at Grosvenor Park in August 1936 (the French won 4-1). But though there was a spirited correspondence in the Dublin media the following year about establishing women's teams, that was to be the last significant action on either side of the border until after the Second World War.

When peace returned, so did football – for the men, anyway. The women's game was slower to take off in England, possibly because the FA was still policing its ban. Dick, Kerr's Ladies, now called Preston Ladies after the company withdrew, had continued in existence, but ran out of steam, opponents and places to play, folding in 1965 – just as interest in the game was rising elsewhere.

Little appears to have happened in Ireland outside Dublin until the 1960s, and what developed then was often indoor football, in Louth and the North-West, with notable teams in Donegal, like Buncrana Hearts, winning tournaments in Derry. Seven-a-side teams were also active.

The game was also developing on the East coast, with Dublin teams like Rainbow Swifts appearing in an exhibition match at the Showgrounds in 1962, and at 7-a-side Jacobs beat White Swan Laundry in a warm-up for "the forthcoming tournament at Harolds Cross" in June 1963, showing a pattern of works teams that echoed the earlier development of the men's game.

Jeyes (Dublin) in 1970

And a little later in Waterford, where Benfica became the leading team, twelve teams were active in a league, including Santos, Hearts, Rangers and Bilberry Rovers. As the decade drew on, despite the claim of an Irish Press columnist in 1967 that "ladies soccer teams are unknown throughout the country", the game spread, with teams being formed in Athlone, Galway and Shannon, Tipperary, Kilkenny and Wexford.

Dundalk rapidly became a high-profile club and were reckoned the Champions of the Republic after defeating Benfica three times in 1968: there was talk of a Championship of Ireland match against Portadown, but I've found no trace of it yet.

That's part of the problem: while the Waterford, Louth and Donegal women's teams were reported in the local press, the women's game in Dublin couldn't find space in the crowded sports pages of the national newspapers – and there was (and is) no local press in Dublin to report on the fortunes of the Jeyes, Urney and McCairns teams, or the public service leagues, active in the 1960s.

Nevertheless, the game was alive and kicking, and only needed official legitimacy to take the next step forward. That would not be long in coming, and from a less than expected direction.

SUMMER CAMPS

Bray Wanderers is delighted to announce that Kitchen World Ireland in Bray are the official sponsors of our summer camps which start this July. Open for kids aged 6-12, they will run in July and August, from 10am to 2pm.

Niall O'Driscoll, Chairman said: "We are delighted to team up with Kitchen World to bring back our summer camps. Covid has been very tough on kids so I am happy that our football camps will bring them some enjoyment over the summer months in a safe.

Ed O'Dea, CEO of Kitchen World added: "The Bray Wanderers Summer Camps are an invaluable resource for the community, bringing much needed fun and enjoyment to local families. At Kitchen World, we're truly delighted to be able to play our part in making this summer a special one".

The poster features a background image of a child's legs running on a grass field. In the top left corner is the Bray Wanderers FC logo, which is a circular crest with a bird and a soccer ball. Below the logo, it says 'In Association with: KITCHENWORLD' and 'DESIGNED FOR THE WAY YOU LIVE'. On the right side, there are two circular inset photos: the top one shows a group of children in green jerseys celebrating on a field, and the bottom one shows a cartoon duck mascot in a green jersey. The main text is in a large, bold, sans-serif font, with 'Bray Wanderers FC' and 'Summer Camps' in white on a yellow background, and 'AGES 6-12' in white on a green background. The 'CAMP DATES' section is in a white box with green text. The bottom section is a yellow banner with green and white text.
